

Let's Practice Your Capitalization and Punctuations Skills.

CAPTAIN CAPITAL

Reminds you to use CAPITAL LETTERS for:

- ★ The letter "I"
- ★ Beginning of a sentence
- ★ Names of people, places, and holidays
- ★ Months & days of the week
- ★ Titles of books, games, programs, or people

PUNCTUATION RULES

- Period
Use a period at the end of a statement, a command, or an indirect question and after most abbreviations.
My favorite food group is fruit.
- Question Mark
Use a question mark at the end of a direct question.
Do you like to eat watermelon?
- Exclamation Point
Use an exclamation point after an interjection or a statement that shows surprise, excitement, or strong feeling.
Yes, I love to eat it in the summer!
- Apostrophe
Use an apostrophe with contractions and to show ownership of something.
That's my mom's famous fruit salad.
- Quotation Marks
Use quotation marks to show direct speech, and place them around titles of short stories, poems, articles, and songs.
"Why is her fruit salad special?" asked Sarah.
- Comma
Use a comma in a list of three or more things, with quotation marks to show direct speech, and to show a pause in a sentence.
"She uses yogurt, walnuts, and three types of melon for added taste and texture," replied Annie.
- Colon
Use a colon to introduce a list or a long quotation.
I need the following items: a large mixing bowl, a mixing spoon, and measuring cups.
- Semicolon
Use a semicolon to join two related sentences or to separate items in a series that have commas.
Fruit is very healthy; it should be eaten every day to fight disease.
